The Property

One wing of a Victorian manor house, The Garth forms part of the historic Undercliff Hall, located in the highly sought-after village of Cleodon. Set within picturesque mature gardens, this substantial family home offers nearly 2,700 square feet of living space, rich in period character and elegance. Just a short distance from the stunning Seaburn Beach and Whitburn, the property also benefits from excellent local amenities and transport links.

The property is approached through an impressive stone-pillared entrance, leading to a long, shared driveway and a spacious gravelled courtyard. The stately façade showcases classic Victorian architecture, with grand proportions, elegant columns, and original features.

Inside, the entrance vestibule opens into a magnificent inner hall, featuring rich wood panelling and an original stone fireplace. The expansive reception hall offers a stunning focal point with a large leaded picture window framing views of the garden.

The full-width drawing room, with its delightful decorative ceiling, period fireplace, and three large south-facing windows, is bathed in natural light and provides a grand space to entertain or relax. The well-appointed kitchen combines modern convenience with traditional craftsmanship, featuring fitted cabinetry, granite work surfaces, and integrated appliances, with direct access to a rear courtyard.

Upstairs, the property boasts four spacious bedrooms. The principal bedroom is a generous double room, highlighted by dual-aspect windows, exposed beams, and a period fireplace. Two further double bedrooms feature original fireplaces, while the fourth bedroom offers flexibility for family use or guest accommodation. The home also includes a study, perfect for working from home or as a nursery. There are two luxurious bathrooms—one featuring a freestanding bath, and the other finished in chic black tiling with period-style fixtures.

A large basement provides additional storage or potential for further development, adding versatility to this already generous home.

Externally

The extensive gardens surrounding The Garth are equally impressive, with mature trees, shrubs, and well-tended lawns providing privacy and a peaceful setting. A raised graveled terrace leads down a set of grand steps to a formal lawn, perfect for outdoor gatherings. A second paved patio features a built-in BBQ, pizza oven, and seating area, ideal for summer entertaining. The detached wooden summer house, currently used as a bar, could easily serve as a studio, home office, or private retreat.

Additional parking is available on a separate plot of land directly opposite the house.
